Command Action in Sexual Assault Offenses

2014-2016 DoD Prevention Strategy

- Environment of mutual respect and trust
- Initiatives and interventions throughout military society
- Informed military leaders and commanders at every level
- Primary prevention – before sexual violence occurs
- Engage civilian and military stakeholders
- Targeted and gender-responsive initiatives to diverse audiences and unique environments

Directives Released Today

- Advance and Sustain Appropriate Culture
- Evaluate Commander SAPR Training
- Review Alcohol Policies
- Improve Reporting for Male Victims
- Develop Collaborative Forum for Sexual Assault Prevention Methods
- Develop Standardized and Voluntary Survey for Victims and Survivors

Summary

- DoD's SAPR program is proactive, victim-focused, and multi-disciplinary
- Our results are measured in choices of victims, who are now reporting in unprecedented numbers
- There is no indication that the spike in reporting reflects an increase in crime
- DoD's goals include increasing the percentage of victims who report while reducing the occurrence of sexual assault
